Reflections: 10 Minutes

Have you learnt anything new about yourself? Has it made you reflect on your own drivers or how you teach?

How do you think this knowledge will empower your learners to take responsibility for their own motivation?

Do you think this could enable students to be better communicators and knowledge about themselves?

What types of motivators do you currently use? Have you thought about different types you could use?

How does this then impact on the wider classroom?

How do you think this could help you to plan for the individualised teaching and learning?
